BARRY TROWBRIDGE'S MOSCOW DIARY

My 'brief' for Moscow was not a simple one. 'Do what you like' is any journalist's dream, but these were my simple editorial instructions. The temptation to get carried away into in-depth event reports had to be rejected more strongly as the days went by, as I knew very well that home-based M. W. would be meeting the task with his usual thoroughness. So, what to do?

I was travelling both ways with the 'AW' party, but was staying in the Press hotel. I didn't know what feedback I would get, and how easy communication would be — I was pleasantly surprised.

I decided eventually that besides collecting, collating and producing complete results, and putting together the much sought-after quotes, I would write session-by-session immediate reactions. These appear below. Predictions, impressions and aspirations have not been changed after the event; some were right, others very wrong; but take yourself back now to July 24th, forget what eventually happened, and see (maybe enjoy) Moscow 1980 as I saw it as it took place.

Thursday, July 24th

Unfortunately, Fatima Whitbread achieved the unwanted distinction of being the first Briton eliminated. Her injury-prone season reached disaster level in the first qualifying group, and as for Tessa, let's say it's all best forgotten. Ute Richter achieved the first new Olympic record of the Games with a second round 66.66m, but they're all there for the final. She won't hold it for long — I'll still take Frau Fuchs. Noticeable that new world record holder Tatyana Biryulina scraped through in 11th out of 12 places . . . makes you think.

Our three Scots certainly looked impressive, though, in the 100m heats, and Gary Oakes had no trouble reaching the second round with his 50.39, that throttling back from two out. Should be a new personal best in the semis. I spoke to Alan Pascoe a few minutes ago about whether he regretted retiring. "Hah'n't thought about it until I saw the heats. I could make the final with no trouble now".

Chris Boxer got caught up in a second lap charge and qualified as 16th out of 16 behind the lovely Gabriella Dorio. Hope they both run blinding semis — add to the attraction of the final easily. Doubt it for Chris, though. I reckon a new UK record and elimination . . . shame. In the pentathlon young Judy Livermore notched up two pbs (100mH — 13.57; SP — 13.56m) and came very close at 1.80m in the high jump. She's fifth at the moment . . . will slip down, but again a new UK record is there for the taking.

If the first 10,000m heat was anything to go by, these Games are going to have their fair share of drama. Antipov walking off the track to a cacophony of whistles at halfway was just the start. With four laps left Viren was dropped — and he was going backwards so fast that surely he was never going to qualify . . . but then came the Treacy tragedy, with only 200m left as well. Viren in the final through the backdoor. Each of the Ethiopian trio had his glory, but why Kedir ran a 56.6 last lap, only he knows. No trouble for Brendan or Micky and with three Finns as well it's going to be some final. Let's hope it's cooler. Poor Geoff Smith, drawn in the first, warmest heat, only produced 30:00.1, but it was great experience for him.

Steve and Seb did exactly what we expected — enough and no more — but Judy Livermore had a bad long jump — 40cm below her best. But what about these Russians? Pentathletes jumping 6.79m, 6.77 and 6.73 and then producing 2:03.6, 2:04.8 and 2:05.2 800's. Shouldn't be allowed! Judy ended up 13th on 4326.

If nothing else international race walking (or the judges, at least) did itself some good. The stadium reaction to interim positions had been enthusiastic to say the least. Even as far as at 15km Anatoliy Solomin was the hero as he was sharing the lead with Daniel Bautista, but you should have heard the crowd's reaction to "the leader approaching Lenin stadium is Maurizio Damilano". Along with five others earlier in the procession Bautista and Solomin had been 'pulled'. The Mexican sombreros previously evident seemed suddenly to disappear! In the conditions, Roger Mills produced a very satisfying 1:32:37.8 for tenth — without collapsing at the end.

Finally, two British records. Allan Wells is looking better with each race, and his 10.11 second round still looks like being bettered tomorrow. Mennea still there, just, by 1/100th from Crawford and Schlegel and Woronin also enclosing stamp to cover postage.

"This is the best thing that's ever happened to British women's shot putting. No one has ever come this far. I knew once the shot left my hand that it was a good one".

Angela Littlewood

beaten. My field's now down to two: the big Scot and Silvio Leonard. Cameron Sharp equalled his first round 10.38 and could also enter the hitherto unknown in the semis, but Drew slipped to sixth; even though he clocked yet another pb (10.42). Spare a thought for Angela Littlewood, who although nearly 5m below the very best in the world still produces the big ones when it matters. A UK record in the trials to get here, and now an even better 17.53m although still not enough for better than 13th. But a childhood dream realised, and she can certainly feel proud of herself. That Slupianek is something apart, though — 22.41 followed up with 22.00, 21.85, 21.81, 21.60 and 21.42.

Friday, July 25th

With the 110m hurdles heats cancelled a very quiet morning was dominated entirely by Daley Thompson. His 100m time of 10.62 gave him an immediate 88 point lead, and when he followed this with a massive legal pb of 8.00m in the long jump his advantage stretched to an incredible 192 points. He didn't win the shot — got to give the others a chance sometime — but still increased his lead over his nearest six challengers. A competitor supreme.

MARIA COLON

Louise Miller jumped in the top pool and had no problem in producing the required 1.88 to qualify for the final, and Sonia, Heather and Kathy all came through the 100m heats easily, although Sonia did labour a little into third place. Three heats were won by East Germans, and the Russians too have a trio through. An intriguing contest is on for the silver medal — assuming we have a Golden Gohr!

The evening session was one to savour. From a British viewpoint Allan Wells' 100m gold medal must be the first layer of icing on what is now looking to be a very special British Olympic cake — but we'll save that till last. Field events first; we experienced the end of Queen Ruth's reign in the javelin, and a triple jump competition which was something very, very special.

Maria Colon is going to be one of the lovely lady Gold medallists. A gritty competitor who has benefitted from East European coaching, she took a leaf out of Ruth's book and had it all up in the first round . . . and she looked so feminine on the rostrum. Ruth herself avoided the chop in the 8th place with 61.48m, and though she improved to 63.94m in the last round that did not improve her placing.

For the gentleman of the Games I doubt if we will have to look beyond Joao Carlos de Oliveira. From our vantage point we couldn't see the extent of his fouls in rounds two, four, five and six, but it wasn't much — and at least three of those leaps were monsters. Australia's Ian Campbell suffered a similar fate five times. After his last leap had been ruled out, the Brazilian shook hands and thanked all the event officials — marvellous sportsmanship from the bronze medallist. Jaak Uudmae stole the gold with his third round 17.35m (followed in the sixth with 17.28) but his heart must have missed a beat when Viktor Sanyeyev ended with a 17.24 to add silver to his three golds. He can be compared with the great Al Oerter — don't let the colour of his fourth medal stop that. Keith Connor was the only finalist to have six legal jumps and his best of 16.87 (—1.22m) was a superb effort for 4th place.

Back on the track, our three girl sprinters all clocked pbs (Sonia q1.20, Kathy 11m24, Heather 1q.25). They could all reach the final, but I doubt medal potential. Our 420m girls all gave good accounts of themselves, in the 52's.

Chris Boxer bowed bravely out of the 800m, when she went from leader at 600, to last at 610m, but it was inevitable. Her 2:00.9 was still good in the circumstances. Glad to say that Gabriella Dorio made it as eighth qualifier — femininity personified. I fancy a Russian clean-up.

Gary Oakes battled his way to the final, and Wilbert Greaves and Mark Holtom (with a pb 13.83) reached the semis of the highs. I anticipate an East German double here from Munkelt and Beck. Then of course there were the 800 semis. Ovett and Coe progressed as all expected but it was Dave Warren who really produced the goods. He forced himself into the lead at the bell and secured a final place in second at the tape . . . removing, in the process, a certain Olaf Beyer. Should be some final!

Meanwhile, Daley was still going well. His 2.08m high jump was only bettered by Sergey Zhelanov — and how, with 2.18m. With the fastest 400m time he rounded off a good day's work with a 264 point advantage. He won't let this go. Team-mate Brad McStravick won his 100m and 400m heats and produced a pb shot of 13.53m, but he's still back in 16th place.

And so to Wells. The semi-final casualty list itself read like a who's who of sprinting — Quarrie, Mennea, Gilkes and Ray were all removed D leaving, as form suggested, a Wells v Leonard battle for gold. What happened is now history, but I was always convinced the Scot had got it — blind optimism, perhaps. A great day for Britain.

"The draw was the worst lane possible, and I was probably then under even more pressure. I got a good start and with ten metres to go I looked across and saw Leonard. I knew it was going to be close so I started diving — probably too early.

"It is the greatest moment of my life, and if I went home tomorrow I'd be a very happy man, but, of course, I'm here to do the 200m as well.

"I'll have to cut the medal in half and give half to Margot — she's been a tremendous influence. It's been a team effort."

Allan Wells

Saturday, July 26th

The morning was one of consolidation for Daley. A 14.47 second fastest 110m hurdles increased his overall lead by five points, and a third round 42.24m discus put him slightly ahead of a world record schedule, even though Kachanov, now leading the Soviet challenge, reduced the overall margin to 198. However injury intervened in the vault and Kachanov was forced to join Pottel and Stark as a spectator. Daley only managed 4.70m, but the stage is set for him tonight. Perhaps no world record this time, but surely Britain's third gold. But the question, inevitably, on everyone's lips is 'Coe or Ovett'.

Olympic medals are of course a rare commodity, but the 800m one-two and Daley's decathlon gold were always on. But what about Gary Oakes? Having just seen fiancée Heather finish 8th in the 100m, Gary ran a truly brave race in the inside berth. He gave it everything, and his reward was a bronze, and a pb of 49.11 into the bargain. Moving stuff.

"I just ran like hell and I'm completely surprised".

Gary Oakes

Heather was joined in the final by Kathy Smallwood; Sonia having being run into 5th in her semi. And what finals these sprints are turning out to be. To my mind, Gohr was closer to Kondratyeva than Leonard was to Wells, but this time they found a 1/100th difference somewhere. After a typical start, Kathy pulled through to 6th, and she above the others must really be itching for the 200m.

The women's high jump never really took off, but that had a lot to do I'm sure with the 800m. Sara Simeoni had the only clearance at 1.97m — (Louise Miller's UK record, remember) being good enough for the other medals. Following Ruth Fuchs' dethroning, Rosi Ackermann (only 1.91) must also be nearing the end of her days at the top.

Our steeplechasers all entered the semis, but not without good fortune. Tony Staynings went through a nightmare — on his own admission he didn't deserve to get through — but they're all there to gain valuable experience. Bayi and Malinowski will fight out the gold.

So to the British golds. Daley, of course, did enough. His 64.16m javelin gave him a 280 point buffer for the 1500m, and though he laboured in over the straight behind Kutsenko, he was there. No world record, but he got what he came for. He too will lift the rest of the team.

"I told you I'd do it five years ago, but not many people would believe me."

About Brad McStravick: "It was great to have someone to talk to, it was consoling."

About commercial again: I'm open to offers — might make a few blue movies!"

About a world record: "I came here to win the gold medal, I've won it. The rain really spoilt any world record chances."

Daley Thompson

If I say I got carried away in the 800m, I'm understating the case yet again. I remember starting to mutter 'Steven, Steven' with 200m left, and my next conscious thoughts are of standing in the aisle by my desk, the race won, screaming and jumping about. Sorry if I'm an embarrassment to my colleagues, but I know how most of them will react when Steve's beaten. Several people have asked me since what I thought. My immediate response: the best man won. But why Seb ran the way he did, who knows — I doubt he does. He had more than one chance to get away and he's the only man ever to run 1:43. He must be a very disappointed young man. I really hope he bounces back for the 1500m, but I think he'll be running for silver.

only hopes of metal lie in the Northumberland & Durham 10,000m championships; but, for me, I think it's only wishful thinking that Ethiopia won't take one and two. Hope I'm wrong.

"You wouldn't believe what Allan's start has done to the rest the team. Gary's one who has really benefitted. He wouldn't have got it otherwise."

David Shaw

Maybe not first and second, but in one of the truly memorable races of the Games so far, we witnessed justice as Miruts Yifter coolly dismissed the Finnish challenge and ran away over the last 300m of the 10,000m. Reminiscent of a Gateshead/Tipton clash the race was an intriguing Ethiopia/Finland battle as, when it hotted up, all three Africans, Kaarlo Maaninka and the ever-brave Lasse Viren pulled away. With Bren and Micky gone, our hearts were with the champion, but our heads told us Yifter. Heads won, but every final now seems to be better than the one before.

"I'm mystified why it wasn't there today. I knew I was in great shape. The training has been going well, and I should know now, after all the years I've been running, when I'm in good shape. This is my last major championships and I didn't want to go out in this way, but I can't write fairy tales."

Brendan Foster

"My hamstring got tight going from the training track to the stadium. It held out for the first half, but it went and I just couldn't go with them. Why does it have to happen in the big ones?"

Mike McLeod

Whereas Finland prevented a sweep there, no country could do the same in the women's 800m final, as the Soviet trio cleaned up. The winner, Nadyezhda Olizaryenko, lowered her world record into the bargain — by a Coe-like margin of 1.4 seconds. A courageous run from a brave lass, as she led for most of the race. Gabriella Dorio had a go on the first circuit, but in the end jogged into last place with 1:59.1. We had better start rethinking our approach to women's middle distance. As Cliff Temple remarked: "We've hardly improved since Ann Packer's 2:01 on cinders in 1964".

As seemed inevitable, Greaves and Holtom both failed to make the final of the highs and this race, again, left the two main contenders in doubt of the outcome. Even when viewed on the big screen they both greeted the finish with shrugged shoulders. Munkelt got it by 1/100th from Casanas — fair enough considering the demolition job he did on the last flight. Our girl hurdlers were also on view. Shirley had an abysmal start, but just did enough, whilst poor Lorna bowed out. A victim apparently of the now common 'Brezhnev gut' for the last three days, Lorna's legs just buckled at the last flight and put her into all sorts of trouble. Fingers crossed now for Rabsztyl.

Preceding the 10,000m final we saw our trio of 400m girls in action in the semis. Feelings were that whoever ran fastest might get a final place. Jos gave her all in the first heat, leading at halfway, but then fell to Eastern power, and it looked like curtains for the other two as Lathan, Nazarova and Kratochvilova pulled clear. Irena Szewinska would surely take fourth place — but try telling that to Linsey Macdonald. She wasn't disheartened, she ran her race, and she made the final. She was 0.13 sec slower than Joslyn but that is the luck of the draw.

Whilst most of this was going on, the men's javelin final filled the infield. It was quite an ordinary affair in the first couple of rounds but the drama started in the third. Firstly, Nemeth survived the cut with his last effort, but Paragi didn't, and then, with the last throw of the round Dainis Kula (with two fouls to his name) recorded 88.88m — but with which end of the javelin? For us, it seemed to come down tail first, but the (Soviet) officials soon had their white flags raised. Funny that the landing never made the TV playback. Not the first incident of doubtful officiating, but Adriaan Paulen says he's happy. Kula thus took the lead, and then with his very next effort he threw 91.20m for the gold medal.

Monday, July 28th

We had heard that Valeriy Borzov had been out to the Olympic Village in the last couple of days to visit Pietro Mennea. True or not, we don't know, but by the 200m final somebody had obviously lifted the man who had bowed miserably out of the 100m. Wells had his best ever start and produced yet another British record, but we have a worthy champion in the Italian.

Cameron Sharp was removed in the semis, as was Shirley Strong in her speciality, although she produced a very crisp 13.12. In the final Rabsztyl blew it again. Good start, and well in contention at half-way, but Komisova pulled clear for the gold in a new Olympic record. The Pole must wonder why it always happens in the big ones.

Our 200m girls looked good and all made the semis. With a good start and fast pick-up Kathy could be good for a bronze here. Hope so — perhaps she'll take the 400 seriously then. And I can't find a better way of leading on to David Emery's 'Snow White' than that — little Linsey Macdonald.

As the finalists came out it was frightening to see her seven gigantic rivals. The Russian crowd

The Swintex Athletes range

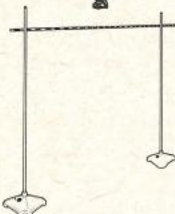

Giving young athletes the right kind of training isn't easy. Your problems are the cost of equipment, storage and time spent on assembly.

Swintex have the answer.

Our main business is the manufacture of road safety systems, traffic and pedestrian control systems and hazard warning devices. (You'll have seen our products on motorways, at exhibitions and in factories!)

We've discovered that we can adapt our products to make effective, economical and easy-to-use training aids for young athletes. We can supply you with Practice Hurdles, High Jump and Pole Vault. Each is simple to assemble, easy to stack and store, light, safe and very economical.

We think you'll be delighted with our prices and we'll be glad to give you individual quotations if you contact us.

didn't know she was just 16, didn't know she had just heard about her eight 'O' levels. But perhaps, just perhaps, she will — naturally develop — into a very special athlete, and then everybody will have to remember her name. The race itself was a formality as Koch stormed away. She was three lanes inside Linsey, and that was swallowed by well before halfway. Not a world record, but convincing enough.

Remaining British track interest saw Dave Moorcroft, Nick Rose and Barry Smith all through in the 5000m, although it was obviously harder going than they had probably expected; Jenks moved to the 400 final — and that's going to be very open; and our steeplechase trio all got KO'd although Roger Hackney and Colin Rietz went under 8:30.

"I'm disappointed I haven't made the final. This has been a great experience for me. I don't intend to move up and I will concentrate on this event. I could make a good impression in Los Angeles."

Colin Rietz

If it wasn't for Bob Beamon and that jump, Lutz Dombrowski would now be world record holder. His fifth round 8.54m overtakes Larry Myricks on the all-time list and he has proved the most clearcut champion so far. Three of his efforts exceeded the second place leap of 8.21 and the average of his five legal jumps was 8.31. Perhaps at Mexico City, with a 2m/sec following wind, 8.90 might not look all that impossible to this young East German.

Wednesday, July 30th

The total sum of events this morning at the Lenin Stadium was the hammer and women's long jump qualifying. Simply, the Sues did, Paul Dickenson and Chris Black didn't. Yuriy Sedykh opened the hammer with a new Olympic record (78.22m), which was followed by a 79m-plus foul by Sergey Litvinov. I expect a Soviet 1-2-3 again, and I've a feeling that 80m line is going to take some hammer . . . sorry! Tonight we could lift three more medals, maybe none.

Sadly, Britain's chances slipped away. David Jenkins was drawn in the outside for his final, but that's been no problem for him in the past, yet by the start of the home straight it was obvious there was another gold coming up for the USSR. During the afternoon break Stan Greenberg had said he thought Markin looked incredibly strong. So it proved, with Rick Mitchell's 44.84 silver run being a new Commonwealth record.

Commonwealth records too for Jamaica's Merlene Ottey with 22.32 in her semi — in front of Barbel Wockel and Kathy — followed by a blistering 22.20 for bronze in the final. Wockel had obviously been having us on, as she never looked troubled. Ripping through the field, she lowered Bochina's earlier Olympic record to 22.03 to retain her title. Our trio placed 5th, 6th and 8th, but with Denise Boyd there as well the Commonwealth did outnumber the rest. A personal best for Bev in the semi and for both her and Kathy in the final. Reading AC can feel proud tonight.

Geoff Capes' first round effort of 20.50m was the best he could muster, but it was good enough for only 5th. Kiselyev was a worthy winner, four of his efforts being over 21m. Beyer suffered from whatever the East German throwers were suffering from . . . and, surprise surprise, there wasn't one put over 21.50m.

The second nought for Britain came in the 5000m semis. With first four plus four fastest to qualify, you must feel sorry for Nick Rose. Fifth in the first heat, well ahead of a dejected — and very ill — Dave Moorcroft, the Bristol man saw his chances go as the second semi went some 11 seconds faster. Barry Smith was left for 9th on the last lap, but still ran faster than Nick. Unthinkable to watch a 5000m final with no domestic involvement, but the likely Ethiopia/Coghlan battle should be intriguing.

"I underestimated John Treacy's speed, and when I finished I thought by finishing fifth I would have done enough to qualify. I thought I was running faster than I was — about 10 seconds."

Nick Rose

"I knew that if I could finish in the first eight I could get in, having seen the first heat. I tried to open a gap with five laps to go, but in the end I just didn't have it. Looking at it after the race, it's a pity I made it fast, as it kept Nick out."

Barry Smith

Meanwhile, the pole vault was in operation. The French had probably their best ever chance of an Olympic medal. Three 5.70m vaulters with 5.77m-man Houvion leading the challenge. But it wasn't to be. On a night when fortune really favoured the bold, Wladyslaw Kozakiewicz became my man of the Games. He shared the lead at 5.60m, took it singly at 5.65m, but then, instead of sitting back and waiting, the mighty man stayed in with the rest. What demoralisation they must have felt. His first-time clearance at 5.65 was enough for the gold, but when he did the same at 5.70 and 5.75 it had to be a special night. It was. He made 5.78 at his second attempt — a new world record. As for the French — rien.

Thursday, July 31st

The evening proceedings started at 17.00 hours. By 17.02 the hammer was won and the world record lists were again rewritten. First competitor: Yuriy Sedykh; first throw 81.80m. Game over. Sergey Litvinov threw third — 80.64 — Silver medal. Sandwiched between them, Juri Tamm — whose opening 77.84 was good enough for bronze — improved to 78.96 second time around. Short and sweet.

The women's long jump was a complete contrast. As they entered the last round it was Skatchko 7.01m, Wlodarczyk 6.88, Wujak 6.88, Kolpakova 6.87, Nygrynova 6.83. Wlodarczyk improved to a stronger silver place (6.95), then with three jumps left it all happened. Kolpakova jumped 7.06, a new Olympic record, for first place; Wujak 7.04 for second place; and lastly, Siegl 6.87 to climb to fifth. One felt immense sorrow for those who didn't have a chance to fight back. The Sues placed 9th and 10th; but a new British record would only have gained seventh.

The relay heats/semis were uninspiring; the only excitement came in a men's sprint semi when the strongly fancied Cubans eventually completed the final change nearer the tape than the change-over box. From a completely neutral viewpoint, the aftermath was hilarious — plenty of chest beating, verbal obscenities and murderous looks. Not Silvio Leonard's Games.

Filbert Bayi tried the only way he knows to lift the Gold he may have been denied in Montreal. From gun to last water jump he led bravely, but the second night in succession belonged to Poland. Malinowski was about 20m down at the bell, but he knew Bayi was coming back fast. Another worthy winner, in 8:09.7.

Rounding up the night the 1500m semis, like the 800m, kept Coe and Ovett apart until it really matters. On paper Seb had the harder draw, but with a performance that at last looked like the real thing he made it look easy. Ovett and Cram were already there as Ovett again proved a comfortable winner. I don't think I've ever seen him wave whilst still in second place before, but that's Steve. At 5.30 tomorrow it's for real. Until tonight I was 100% sure that Ovett would lift the double, but now I'm down to 99%. Perhaps that's all Seb will need.

Friday, August 1st

First event to start was the men's high jump final. It was a fitting climax to the Games — in that it was also the last to finish — as it provided us with another World record. With Soviet involvement eliminated early on the crowd were at last appreciative without being biased, and Gerd Wessig's ovation earned by his second clearance of 2.36m was well deserved.

The other field event saved until last was the women's discus, which really went off with little or no attention at all. East European hulks throwing dinner plates around hardly has the same attention as Coe, Ovett and Miruts Yifter. Evelin Jahl duly recovered her form, with four efforts over 68m, whilst Meg Ritchie just missed the final cut, placing 9th with 61.16m — same position as Mark Naylor (2.21m) in the high jump.

The East German girls produced the other world record of the evening in the sprint relay preventing a clean sweep from the Russians in the baton events. Good to see both of our girls' teams winning the bronze medals. It meant that both Kathy Smallwood and Linsey Macdonald got their medals, and they had worked so hard for them. The men though, were not so lucky. Drew McMaster could not hold France's Herman Panzo (though the team did set a UK record), whilst Glen Cohen 'had an accident' and failed to finish in the longer race.

Meanwhile, out on the streets of Moscow the marathon runners were in action. Stadium coverage was poor — non-existent once a non-Russian was leading — and the TV coverage was really less than adequate. Shots of river boats, sights of Moscow and Africans back in 20th place filled the monitors all too often. You had to watch hard to pick up the leaders. Our trio were nothing less than a great disappointment. In these days of ever-increasing participation in the longer events, the retention of the title by Valdemar Cierpinski was an exceptional feat. Apparently Yifter is going for this event in LA. For now though, the wizened Ethiopian settled for the 5000/10,000 double. Another team effort saw the Africans set up their second gold for Miruts, something we never really doubted. And his was the only double.

And so to the 1500. Difficult to know what to say really. The race details, I'm sure, are familiar 1500m victory 'frees' Seb Coe.

Mark Shearman

by now. The hungry man won, and if Ovett says Coe was a worthy winner, then Coe was a worthy winner. Both men came for gold, both achieved it. My secondary reaction to the 800 was 'Why did Seb run like that?' A similar puzzle after the 1500, but again — on the day — the best man won.

"I came to win the 800m, although I'd prepared very well for the 1500m as well. I knew I wouldn't run as badly as last Saturday. My plans were to sprint from 200m or 150m. I made the break first on this occasion, whereas Steve made it first in the 800m. My plans were to follow the pace immediately so that I could be in a good striking position. I intend running for at least another four years, and I hope that encompasses another Olympics."

Seb Coe

"I don't bear any grudges against Seb, he was a worthy winner. I just couldn't lift myself after the 800m."

Steve Ovett

Final thoughts. A wonderful experience, but a sapping one. Apparently some people on the 'AW' tour were sporting a banner 'Eat your heart out, Maggie' . . . but was it she who arranged that fog at Gatwick which meant we were all dumped at Heathrow? We'll never know.

Avon Women's Marathon Points Way To Olympic Acceptance

IT WAS NO coincidence that the Avon Cosmetics International Marathon Championship for women, on August 3rd, should be staged in such close proximity to the Olympic marathon. The intention was to demonstrate that women's marathon running has now gained such international acceptance that it is worthy of Olympic recognition — and the Avon race certainly added weight to the arguments of those pressing for the event's inclusion at the next Games. Entries were drawn from 27 countries, which compares quite well with the 40 nations represented in the Moscow marathon, and is a much more impressive figure than that, for instance, for the women's 1500m (14 countries) or men's shot (11).

"The organisation of these and other races", says IAAF president Adriaan Paulen, "and the dramatic participation of the women themselves have provided solid statistics and fresh data showing women's strong capabilities in distance running. This data, plus the enthusiasm and talent of the athletes has been a major factor in the IAAF's support for women's distance running and recommendation for its inclusion in international and Olympic Games competition". The International Olympic Committee agreed in Moscow to add the women's 3000m and 400m hurdles events to the 1984 Olympic programme in Los Angeles and have given the IAAF a year in which to present a strong case for the inclusion of the marathon. With races like this Avon championship to offer as evidence there should be few problems. The standard of performance was incredibly high, particularly on a hot and humid day (five girls under 2:40, 17 inside 2:50), and there were fewer signs of distress at the finish than in a comparable men's race. There is no reason, logically or logistically, why women marathoners shouldn't run with the men in Los Angeles.

The Avon race made history on two counts: as the first major international women's marathon to be staged in Britain; and as the first marathon race of any sort to be run through the heart of London, necessitating closure of roads by the police. The organisational problems were immense, but each obstacle was surmounted and the result was a triumph of planning which was much appreciated by the competitors. Congratulations must go to such individuals as Kathrine Switzer, who masterminded Avon's International Running Circuit, and race director Bryan Smith, but the runners will also want to thank the army of helpers who made the event possible.

The field of over 200 started at a point near Batesea Park running track and ran three circuits of the park — some 14km — before embarking on their unique sightseeing tour of London.

Gillian Burley was the early leader but at 5km (18:20) the pack was headed by Silvana Cruciata, Carol Gould, Vreni Forster and Lorraine Moller. At 10km (36:50) Cruciata and Nancy Konz were 50m ahead, followed by Forster, Gould, Moller,

Mel Watman reports

Marty Cooksey and Joyce Smith among others, and by the time they reached 15km (56:15), soon after leaving the shady park for the bright sunlight of the open road, Cruciata and Konz were 150m clear of the pack. And what a pack! The runners included the second (Joan Benoit 2:31:23), third (Joyce Smith 2:33:32) and fifth fastest (Christa Vahlensieck 2:34:48) of all time, plus other sub-2:40 performers in Forster, Moller, Gillian Adams, Sue Krenn, Laurie Binder, Elizabeth Hassall, Gail Volk and Sissel Grottenberg.

The leader at Westminster Bridge (20km; 1:13:29) was Cruciata (27), Italy's leading marathoner with a time of 2:50:00 in 1976 following an international track career with such marks as 2:04 for 800 and 4:10 for 1500. Twenty metres behind came Konz, a 23-year-old American taking part in her second marathon race. Sharing third place another 100m back were Forster and Smith; Moller was 5th a further 30m behind, followed after a gap of 100m by Cooksey and Linda Staudt. Next came Benoit, Gould, Karen Doppes-Cosgrove, Binder, Karen Fitz, Vahlensieck (who later dropped out) and Beth Guerin, while after a slowish start Gillian Adams was running in 17th place.

Big crowds lined the route as the girls passed the Houses of Parliament and turned eastwards onto The Embankment on the next stage of their journey towards the Tower of London and the Isle of Dogs. It was during the next couple of miles that Nancy Konz made her big effort to run away with the race. Drawing level with her Italian rival at 23km she forged ahead and was 40m clear at the 24km checkpoint (1:28:10) near the Tower. Lorraine Moller (NZ) was now third, 100m behind Cruciata, a stride or two in front of Joyce Smith, with Forster 70m in arrears in 5th place. Benoit was 6th, Cooksey 7th, Staudt 8th... and then a very long gap before Binder appeared in 9th position.

Several important positional changes took place in the next few kilometres. Cruciata had shot her bolt and started slipping back: at 28km she was 4th behind Konz, Moller and Smith: a kilometre later she was reduced to a walk and eventually she dropped out. The other early pacesetter, Nancy Konz, also began to tire and her 70m lead over Moller at 28km was steadily whittled away so that at 30km (1:49:48) the New Zealander was a stride ahead. Lorraine had put in some tremendous running over the previous 10km, which she must have covered in well inside 36 minutes, to get into this position and her thrusting stride never faltered. Over the closing stages, back past the Tower and towards the finish at Guildhall, Moller drew ever further ahead of the game American (her lead at 35km, in 2:08:00, was 100m and at the end it was nearly 250m), and with a tremendous finish Canada's Linda Staudt — making a remarkable marathon debut — moved up to third place a minute ahead of Joan Benoit with Vreni Forster a close fifth. Joyce Smith, 3rd at 30km, faded — with good reason, as we shall explain — to 7th but had the consolation of winning the WAAA title held in conjunction. The second Briton home, in 10th place, was Gillian Adams who overtook five runners in the last 4-5 miles. It had been a fine race.

Lorraine Moller (25) moved up to 7th on the world all-time list with her winning time of 2:35:11, a New Zealand record. This was her third marathon, her previous times being 2:37:37 and 2:38:28. A former track runner of distinction (5th in the 1974 Commonwealth Games 800 in 2:03.6) and an excellent cross-country runner (5th in the 1975 World Championships), Lorraine set a world's best of 1:55:36 on a hilly 20 miles course in the USA in May. She trains between 90 and 130 miles a week during a 10-week preparation period prior to a marathon, and for the Avon race she wore the very same pair of shoes (size 8½) as carried Garry Bjorklund to a personal best of 2:10:19 in June. Lorraine, who said her only bad period was the last two miles when she was afraid that Nancy Konz might be catching up but refused to turn round and look, is 1.70/5'7" tall and weighs 57kg/125lb.

Nancy Conz (23), from Massachusetts, has run two marathons: her first took 2:43:53, her second — in London — 2:36:02, which ranks her third American and 11th world all-time. A rangy 1.73/5'8" and 53kg/116lb, Nancy trains 70 miles a week, much of it on hills. She has run 10,000m on the track in 34:03.8.

Linda Staudt (21), a petite 1.60/5'3", 48kg/105lb Canadian who is a student of human kinetics, was the surprise package of the race. Only a moderate track runner (10:06 3000) she showed her potential at longer distances by winning a half marathon in Chicago last November in 1:21:34. Her aim in London was to break 2:40, which she did comfortably with 2:37:39, but she hadn't expected to finish as high as third.

Joan Benoit (23), another compact little runner at 1.60/5'3" and 47kg/104lb, is the USA record holder and second fastest of all-time with her 2:31:23 clocking in New Zealand in February. She had hoped to break 2½ hours in London but had to settle for 4th in 2:38:42. However, she is only just getting back into stride after an emergency appendectomy in March followed by a shoulder operation in April.

Vreni Forster (24), smaller still, finished 5th in 2:38:58 — a substantial improvement on her 9th place in 2:46:17 in last year's Avon championship a Waldniel, won by Joyce Smith in 2:36:27. Vreni took over 7 min from the Swiss record when clocking 2:35:57 behind Joyce in this year's Sanbach Marathon in June and has established herself as a serious contender for the inaugural European title in 1982.

Marty Cooksey (26), winner of the first Avon international championship in 1978, was unable to compete in last year's race due to a stress fracture. Her time in London of 2:41:01 in 6th place was a personal best. She set an American 30km record of 1:50:45 in May.

Joyce Smith (42) placed 7th in 2:41:22 for one of the bravest performances of a gritty career. She shouldn't really have been running at all; she caught chickenpox from her daughter at the beginning of July, necessitating ten days off, then after a week's training she sustained a torn calf muscle which cost her another eight days. It was only four days before the race that she was cleared by the physiotherapist. If it had been any other race she would have withdrawn, but in view of the importance of having a British runner prominent in this unique event she agreed to compete although obviously far from her fittest. Prior to the illness and injury Joyce had been showing fantastic form, setting a Commonwealth record (and moving to No. 3 on the all-time list) at Sandbach with a 2:33:32 which was in effect a training run! After following up with an easy 1:28:18 25km in Bruges, Joyce was geared up for 2:30 in the big race before the setback occurred. As always, Joyce gave of her best and was holding third place at 20 miles (around 1:59), at which point her calf muscle began tightening up and she was obliged to slow down in order to ensure that she finished. It was a very courageous run, and only four women passed her in those last six difficult miles. Joyce says she hopes to run another marathon, with 2:30 as the objective, in October or November, and intends retiring next year after a further marathon or two.

Beth Guerin (20), who began running three years ago to get in shape for basketball, was 5th in last year's race in a pb of 2:42:44, and this time she improved exactly a minute in 8th place.

Karen Fitz (23), another American, made an excellent marathon debut in 2:41:52.

Gillian Adms (25), ever consistent, placed 10th in 2:42:14 with a blistering finish after a relatively sedate start. She didn't like the Battersea Park segment, finding running round the park boring, but began moving through the field once she hit the open road.

Notes on some other finishers:—

Laurie Binder (11th), a 32-year-old nurse from California who has run 2:39:22 and trains 100 miles a week, started running four years ago to stop smoking and improve her physical condition. Carol Gould (12th), Joyce Smith's 36-year-old Barnet clubmate, maintained her impressive consistency. In this her 4th marathon she ran 2:43:50, her other three ranged from 2:40:37 to 2:44:30. Elizabeth Hassall (13th), Australian record holder at 2:39:48, is a former sprinter who took up jogging to keep fit and ran her first marathon in 1976 aged 32; she trains up to 110M a week. Eleonora Mendonca, (16th), South American and Brazilian record holder with 2:48:45, began running in 1972 (aged 23) to stay in condition for competitive tennis. Karen Doppes-Cosgrove (18th), a 24-year-old American, has progressed rapidly from a casual jogger to a top-class marathoner. She ran 3:50 for her first marathon in June 1977, 3:38 for her second that year, 3:03 in 1978, 2:45:45 in 1979.

Gail Volk (29th), aged 19, is holder of the US high school record of 2:39:48 set last year; she's coached by former cross-country great Doris Brown. Diane Palmason (30th), a Canadian freelance writer and editor, is 42 and only began running in 1976 while recuperating from spinal surgery. Her best is 2:52:48 this year. Kiyoko Obata (40th), from Japan, has perhaps the most colourful background of anyone in the race. A 2:48:52 performer, she lives in an island commune as a member of a folklore group and is an accomplished sword dancer, demon dancer and classical flautist... and finds the time to run 100M a week. Rosemary Wright (48th) is probably the fastest 400/800 runner to complete a marathon. As Rosemary Stirling, of course, she won a gold medal in the 1969 European 4x400 and was Commonwealth 800 champion in 1970. She's married to Trevor Wright and the mother of two. She's now 32 and this was her marathon debut.
